

Nota Curricular

Benjamin Sayous

Doctor in Private Law and Criminal Sciences, specialty Criminology, Graduate of the Master 2 professional "Criminology and Victim's Rights" of the University of Pau (UPPA) and of the Master 2 "Fundamental Criminal Law "from the University of Montpellier (Montpellier I).

Is the author of a thesis on the subject " Restorative justice: criminological and procedural aspects" in which he discusses the institutionalization of restorative justice and the operationalization of access to restorative justice in France.

Engaged since 2003 in victim's support and protection of their rights, he is a founding member of the French Institute for Restorative Justice (IFJR) in 2013, of which he was general secretary before being its director in 2014.

As part of his activities within the Institute, he oversees all of the Institute's actions in support of restorative justice programs, as well as the research programs conducted by the Institute on restorative justice and the rights of victims and offenders.